

This ancient Hagadah was willed and sent to Felix - when Hitler ordered confiscation + burning of all sacred Hebrew books. The book arrived in Melbourne, Australia by secret means - together with the Genealogy of the illustrious forebears graetz - Monash - Behrend as compiled by the Historian "Bettleheim"
I now bequeeth this and other sacred prayer books to Mrs. Ursula Ten Brink to add grace to her library!
with all good wishes

" TO THE LIVING."

The following verses, written by Mr. Alan Gross in 1918 and published in "The Argus" are to be added to our Hymnal for use at the Liberal Synagogue services. The music was composed by Mr. L. A. Adamson, well-loved by many of us, for the Wesley College Song Book, and was afterwards revised by the organist of St. Paul's Cathedral, Dr. A. E. Floyd. For permission to use the accompaniment we are indebted to Mr. Adamson.

TO THE LIVING.

This poem was composed by Felix-Personal Friend-

I.

For one, the flush of morning ;
For one, the shades of night ;
But glad heart and sad heart
Are equal in God's sight.
As He Who set the testing
Will surely know the tale,
Await His time with patience
And patience shall avail.

II.

For one, the blossomed roses ;
For one, the thorns are grown,
A rare plant, a fair plant,
Though honey bees have flown,
Since they who fall in battle
Shall never aged grow,
Their youth is made immortal
Above the years that flow.

III.

For one, the spread of Heaven ;
For one, this bounded earth,
A sweet place, a meet place,
Since Love came here to birth.
As for the waiting mothers
Pray sons, where'er they be,
Eternal Love shall guard them
Who love so tenderly.

IV.

For one, the smooth, full waters ;
For one, the stream runs fast ;
But wild way or mild way
Shall find the sea at last.
As He who set the testing
Will surely know the tale,
Be comforted, be patient,
And patience shall avail.
