Dear friend,

On the threshold of the New Year, 1964, we want to submit to you our most heartfelt wishes and blessings.

We ask of Heaven that it bestow upon you and your entire family health, much success and the fulfilment of all your wishes.

Stretching out a hand to the persecuted and hunted Jews during the war, you have demonstrated to an indifferent world that love of our fellow-men, the readiness for sacrifices and light of belief and faith had not vanished entirely in the hearts of great men. Your wonderful example, dear friend, will serve as a source of consolation and hope to the younger generation in Israel and the world over.

Under separate cover we have taken the privilege of sending you, dear friend, a little souvenir from Israel, as a token of good wishes for the New Year and an expression of our gratitude.

Very sincerely yours.
