

Syllabus 1942

1942

1 The first part of the syllabus deals with the general principles of the subject and the methods of research. It includes a study of the history of the subject and the work of the pioneers in the field.

2 The second part of the syllabus deals with the theory of the subject. It includes a study of the basic principles and the methods of proof. It also includes a study of the applications of the theory to various fields of science.

3 The third part of the syllabus deals with the experimental work. It includes a study of the methods of measurement and the construction of apparatus. It also includes a study of the results of the experiments and the interpretation of the data.

4 The fourth part of the syllabus deals with the practical work. It includes a study of the methods of calculation and the use of the computer. It also includes a study of the results of the practical work and the interpretation of the data.

5 The fifth part of the syllabus deals with the advanced topics. It includes a study of the latest developments in the subject and the work of the leading authorities in the field.

6 The sixth part of the syllabus deals with the final project. It includes a study of the methods of research and the construction of a thesis. It also includes a study of the results of the project and the interpretation of the data.

7 The seventh part of the syllabus deals with the final examination. It includes a study of the methods of examination and the construction of a thesis. It also includes a study of the results of the examination and the interpretation of the data.

8 The eighth part of the syllabus deals with the final report. It includes a study of the methods of report writing and the construction of a thesis. It also includes a study of the results of the report and the interpretation of the data.

9 The ninth part of the syllabus deals with the final thesis. It includes a study of the methods of thesis writing and the construction of a thesis. It also includes a study of the results of the thesis and the interpretation of the data.

10 The tenth part of the syllabus deals with the final dissertation. It includes a study of the methods of dissertation writing and the construction of a thesis. It also includes a study of the results of the dissertation and the interpretation of the data.

