

1944

A MERRY XMAS

Olivia Engel
1944

My Darling Wife,

By a stroke of luck we were able to buy five Xmas cards today and this is one of them. Some of the boys ran off some verses of our own for an Xmas card, prepared on the tabulator to help out, but even then we could not get enough cards.

Anyway, honey, I feel fortunate to have any card at all to send to you.

The card can not convey the wishes I want to send to you and Laura nor the love I would like to prove to you, but it will express to you in a small way the age old greeting for a happy holiday season and a brighter New Year.

I love you, darling. Your loving husband,
Cliff